

Local Improvement Network in Renton

SENIOR DIRECTOR, STRATEGY FOR RACIAL EQUITY IMPACT

JOB OPPORTUNITY

A personal commitment to racial equity along with experience engaging communities in direct, anti-racist action is required for candidates interested in this position. People with lived experience in historically marginalized and excluded communities are especially encouraged to apply.

The Community Center for Education Results (CCER) seeks a visionary, nimble, anti-racist strategist to lead the organization's efforts to deepen and grow the region's impact for students in the Road Map Project region, an area that includes South Seattle and South King County, with more than 127,000 K-12 students, 72% of whom are students of color. This is an exciting opportunity for someone deeply committed to leading with race, in service of our students.

CCER is a 501(c)(3) organization that serves as the backbone organization for the Road Map Project - a collective impact initiative working to improve educational outcomes from early learning to postsecondary, in a region made up of seven King County, Washington school districts: Auburn, Federal Way, Highline, Kent, Renton, (South) Seattle, and Tukwila.

THE OPPORTUNITY

The Senior Director, Strategy for Racial Equity Impact will work closely with the new Executive Director to prioritize addressing systemic barriers to racial equity, so that we can achieve our Road Map Project goal of eradicating opportunity and achievement gaps in our region by 2030. This role will help us achieve that goal by helping CCER to increase impact across several major workstreams, including Local Improvement Networks, College & Career Success, and Opportunity Youth.

This full-time, exempt role will supervise and support the Directors of the above mentioned workstreams. The work these directors lead is focused on initiatives designed to advance the Road Map Project System-Wide Racial Equity Essentials and to improve system- and student-level outcomes.

Some of those initiatives include:

- Supporting improvement in kindergarten readiness and early grade success;
- Strengthening college and career readiness practices and policies in high schools;
- Supporting strategies leading to postsecondary success; and
- Developing a strong opportunity youth reengagement system.

The Senior Director, Strategy for Racial Equity Impact will bring a curious and strategic eye to aligning our initiatives across our broader organizational structure and across our region. Initial work will include evaluating disaggregated data, equitably building staff continuous improvement capacity, identifying anti-racist and community-centered opportunities to sustain and scale our impact, solving complex problems by directly and comfortably calling the question on race, supporting partnership development across a richly diverse community, and assisting our efforts to garner the resources to do this work.

Key Responsibilities of the Senior Director, Strategy for Racial Equity Impact:

- In deep partnership with the Executive Director, advance CCER's evolving anti-racist work to deepen the organization's racially equitable impact on students in the Road Map region.
- As supervisor of several directors, strengthen alignment, integration, and tracking of strategies led by CCER and implementation partners to effectively work towards achieving the 2030 Road Map Project goal.
- As lead for our impact work, strategically serve as the bridge between workstreams by facilitating organizational learning on the impact of our increasingly aligned work.
- As a strategic leader, elevate key findings of impact so that external communications can be aligned to our racially equitable aims with Road Map Project partners, policymakers, and funders.

THE IDEAL CANDIDATE

- We seek a candidate who is passionate about the success of children and youth in the Road Map Project region, and committed to eliminating opportunity gaps.
- We are looking for a results-oriented leader with current, concrete examples of how they are dismantling racism in their communities.
- Our ideal candidate will have a deep understanding of the opportunities and potential in communities functioning at the intersections of identity including, but not limited to, race, ethnicity, class, ability, immigration status, sexual orientation, and gender. Experience engaging with and working alongside Black, Indigenous, and Latinx communities is especially ideal as our data indicates these communities are often the least, if not last, served.
- Candidates with knowledge, deep curiosity, and experience in the education system will have a head start in this position. Personal and parental/care-giver experience with the education system's impact on students of color is valuable to us. A deep curiosity about improvements that can be made along the cradle through college continuum is a plus.
- We seek a strategic leader with specific examples of how they have led organizations or groups to better collaborate and learn from each other in structured and organic ways that honor an anti-racist journey.
- The successful candidate will enjoy managing people and building teams that are diverse in knowledge, experience, talents, and skills. They will be good at inspiring excellence and creating a culture of honest vulnerability through mentoring and professional development.
- We are seeking applicants who have a demonstrated ability to connect people, projects, and ideas in collaborative ways that honor the multiple, diverse partners working on opportunities from a variety of angles at the same time.
- This leader will be at ease building relationships and will have an approach to leadership that builds trust and fosters collaboration across diverse groups with an emphasis on bringing the most marginalized voices to the forefront.
- The successful candidate will be open to change and able to work at the speed of community; someone who is able to work well in a flexible, sometimes fast-paced, sometimes intentionally slower-paced nonprofit environment.
- We seek a candidate with experience using data to shift the narrative about what is possible in programs and systems, and knowledge of how to change processes that are not working for our community.

ABOUT COMMUNITY CENTER FOR EDUCATION RESULTS AND THE ROAD MAP PROJECT

As a collective impact initiative, the Road Map Project brings people and organizations together to work toward the same goal. The partnership works under a common agenda, uses shared measurement, fosters mutually reinforcing activities, and stays in continuous communication. All of this work is supported by a dedicated team at CCER.

CCER is a nonprofit organization created to serve as the Road Map Project's backbone organization. The team provides data, research, communications, program, logistical, and other supports in service to the initiative.

The students of the Road Map Project region envision a future with college, but less than a third currently earn a degree or career credential by their mid-twenties. It's not because they lack the drive: a recent survey shows 96 percent of our high schoolers want a postsecondary education. It's because today's systems, policies, and practices were not designed for students of color. The focus must be on removing the systemic barriers and increasing equitable policies and practices so all students can succeed; we want every child and young person in our region to thrive in their education, communities, and life.
